

USE STEEL POLES IN OTHER CITIES

Ninth East Residents Tell the Councilmen What They Do Elsewhere.

HIGHBROW DISCUSSION HELD

The City Fathers Hear Much About The Habits of A. C. and D. C. Currents, Volts, Amperes, Etc.

The city council met at a committee of the whole Thursday evening to listen to protests of property owners on Ninth East street, which is to be graded this year, against the placing of wooden poles along that street by the Utah Light & Railway company.

Representatives of the company were present on the matter, as to the necessity of using steel poles on Ninth East.

The committee representing the property owners of Ninth East was present, and urged the council to compel the company to put in steel poles, saying that steel poles had been put in on other paved streets in the city, and they were entitled to as much consideration as property owners in any other section of the city. Wooden poles, they claimed, would greatly mar the beauty of the street.

The representatives of the Utah Light & Railway company contended that it would not be feasible or practicable to turn their high-tension wires on steel poles, as would have to be done on Ninth East. The light company people told the committee a great deal about wires, poles, volts, amperes and kilowatts which was highly technical and interesting to the average council member.

The Ninth-Easters in answer to the objections to the steel poles, cited several cities where high-tension wires are run on steel poles, Los Angeles being given as a prominent example.
The engineering committee, which has the matter in charge, after listening to the arguments of both sides told the matter under advisement until next Thursday night, when it is expected the committee will make a final report.

The license committee held a brief session and decided to recommend that a refund of $298.50 be made to Charles Swain on his saloon license at 24 west third South street. Swain was before the council last week to show cause why his license should not be revoked for selling liquor on Sunday. Swain claimed he had sold his saloon to Bill & Warnack before the alleged violation of the ordinance occurred, and no action was taken on that matter. Swain then petitioned for a refund of the unused portion of the license, which the committee decided to grant.

The petition of the "Dark Drug company for a liquor license at Sugar House was referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to whether or not the company would have to take out a license for the sale of alcohol only.

The committee on public grounds and waterways decided to recommend to the council that the trading of sheep through Esker canyon be stopped in future, and that the land and water commissioner be instructed to keep the sheep out of this canyon.

MISSOURI FARMERS HERE.

Will Inspect Farm and Fruit Lands in Gunnison Valley.

A party of well-to-do Missouri valley farmers reached Salt Lake Thursday afternoon on the way to Gunnison valley, where farm and fruit lands will be inspected, and if the lands look good, some large purchases will be made this week. The party is made up of W. W. Shrader of Chicago, W.
F. Griffith of Neola, Iowa; F. Barnes and William Whitney of Underwood, Iowa. Mr. Shrader is the Missouri valley representative of the Spaulding-Livingston Investment company of Salt Lake, which company owns 5,000 acres of land in and around the town of Gunnison in Sanpete county, and it is this land that is to be inspected. The bids in that locality are valued at $65 to $125 an acre, the lowest priced being productive farm lands, while the other is suitable for fruit growing. Should the Missouri valley people conclude to invest, they will move there with their families.

AMUSEMENTS

Orpheum—The bill this week at the Orpheum headed by Helen Grantley in "The Agitator," and including six other vaudeville turns, is being presented to good houses. Next week Mat Hensen, Peary's colored attendant who reached the north pole with the commandant, will be the headliner.

Colonial—"His Last Dollar," an entertaining racing play along similar lines to "Checkers." "Wildfire," "In the Old Kentucky" and other dramas of that stripe, is holding its own against all comers in town as the best audiences at the Colonial bear witness.

Grand—"The Paradise" as presented by Theodore Lorci and his stock company continues to play to good business at the Grand. The play which deals with the masses is followed with vivid interest at each performance.

Bungalow—With the two performances Saturday of "Esmeralda" at the Bungalow, the engagement of that popular stock company will close in Salt Lake, so that there are but four more opportunities to see as pretty a play as has been staged here in many months.

Shubert—Owing to the extreme popularity of "Romeo at the Shubert" this week, Manager Florence has placed a standing order with all the leading manufacturers for from one to three copies of every topical feature subject released to be shipped to his film exchange. This will enable him always to present these excellent subjects in Salt Lake City as early as they can be shown anywhere in the country.

Mission—The Mission theater's new bill, which opened last night for the week, playing to two crowded performances, is one of the most unusual and varied offered by Sullivan and Conditine for many moons. The "Phantastic phantoms" is a odd novelty in black and white and spectacular in its creation.

Emma Seigel and John Hathaway lift the bill up considerably and win loads of applause in their dancing and singing skit. Miss Seigel is a clever dancer and sings a song in a talking English way, which scores on its merits.

Alf Ripen, a Scotch ventriloquist, with his dummy, "McPherson," has some really up-to-date dialogue, which contains several good laughs.
Carlyle Moore and Eteyn Palmer play a sketch, "Disillusioned" which is quite dramatic. It is the story of an affected young woman who is seeking a career on the stage.

The Les Theodors do a series of startling features. The team is composed of a man and woman. From all appearances the woman has a wonderfully strong set of teeth and the man performs a number of gymnastic "stunts."

The exhibition of the pictures of Roosevelt in Africa is one of the features of the bill. The pictures run about 25 minutes. These films are the complete views of ex-President Roosevelt in Africa in the biggest game chase of modern times. The Mission orchestra concludes the bill with three selections.

MOTHER HIDES HER BOY.

Mrs. Hannah Edwards Tried to Keep Son From Officers.

The juvenile court officers had a merry chase Thursday after a lad who had escaped from the Uintah training school last Sunday. The officers determined to search the house of the lad's mother, Mrs. Hannah Edwards, at 20 Pear street, and when they arrived there in quest of the boy, the mother refused to let them come into the house, and told them the boy was not there.
The officers finally gained entrance to the house, however, and began a systematic search, followed by the mother.
They looked in vain in closets, pantries, cellars and attic, nowhere was the boy to be found. Finally Officer Brown, who, with Officer Sperry, had made the search, told Mrs. Edwards that it was useless to conceal the boy longer, as they were satisfied he was there and they would tear the house down if necessary to find him. The mother weakened and went up into the attic and soon brought her boy back. He had been concealed back of the lathing on the wall, the laths having been taken off to permit the boy to get between the beams, and then tacked back on. The woman was finally reconciled to having her boy returned to the training school, after being talked to by Judge Alexander McMaster.

PARLEY A HERO OF THE SUFFRAGETTES

Salt Lake Man Becomes a Lion at Meeting of Women in Streets of Washington.

Parley P. Jensen of Salt Lake, who is now studying law in the George Washington university, Washington, D. C., took a walk one day last week down Pennsylvania avenue just in time to take part in a suffragette's meeting and became a lion for the cause. For half an hour, Mr. Jensen told what had been accomplished in Utah and received considerable space in the Washington press. The occasion was the forty-second annual convention of suffragists held in Washington.

When Mr. Jensen came upon the crowd in the street he stopped to listen to the woman who was speaking.
A young woman approached him and asked him to wear a badge "Votes for Women." He planned the badge on his coat and then remarked that he was from Utah where the issue was settled years ago.

Mr. Jensen was induced to speak and after he had finished the committee invited him to go to New York and address a meeting there in the interest of the suffrage movement. While the speaking was in progress, the daughter of Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Miss Caroline Laxon, of New York and other prominent society girls and club women distributed literature and buttons among the crowd.
